Adriana Aristizabal, CEO of iVoice Communications, a Global Public Relations Agency, to participate in the annual Forbes 30/50 Summit in celebration of International Women's Day --

New York, NY - March 3, 2023 - Adriana Aristizabal, Founder and CEO of iVoice Communications, former war correspondent, and a former Colombian diplomat in the United States, will join some of the most powerful women in the world who will gather in the United Arab Emirates' capital for the Forbes 30/50 Summit, taking place from March 7 to March 10, 2023. The event will celebrate International Women's Day and the remarkable achievements of women across the globe. The Forbes 30/50 Summit celebrates the achievements of women around the world, empowering and inspiring the next generation of female leaders.

Adriana Aristizabal returns to the Forbes 30/50 Summit for her second year, joining a group of entrepreneurs, thinkers, and politicians from around the world. "The Summit is a kind of cross-over generational opportunity for mutual mentorship between the 30 under 30 and 50 over 50 women," Adriana says in a recent interview.

Adriana will be sharing her experiences with women at the summit, providing and receiving guidance and inspiration. In particular, Adriana will provide coaching, mentoring, and advice to the women on the Forbes 30 Under 30 list, aiming to assist them with their goals and navigate the challenges they may face in their careers. She believes that taking risks, focusing on goals, and practicing self-care are essential for success. "I would like to invite these incredible women to review their quality of life, in addition to the success of their companies, to look at themselves and make their self-care a personal priority," concludes Adriana.

Adriana is looking forward to attending the summit with Gloria Steinem, an American legend in journalism, and hearing from Olena Zelenska, the First Lady of Ukraine, on the current situation in Ukraine.

Adriana will also participate with the Women of Wisdom Circle, a group of prominent Afghan women led by Heidi Kuhn, Founder and CEO of Roots of Peace. Heidi was selected as a Forbes 50 Over 50 Women of Impact, and she established the Women of Wisdom Circle to raise awareness about the impact of Afghan women on agriculture in the workforce.

BOILERPLATE FOR ROOTS OF PEACE

For the past 25 years, Roots of Peace has worked in war-torn countries around the world to clear the remnants of war, landmines and unexploded ordnance, and restore land to rebuild peaceful communities for generations to come. More than 500 million smallholder farm households around the world live on less than $2 a day. Building a sustainable and regenerative source of income that provides families with livelihoods and stability is one of the most pressing issues to be addressed in post-conflict countries. With the help of Roots of Peace, farmers are addressing key challenges to increase income by applying modern technology and farming techniques that result in higher yields and sustainability.

Roots of Peace's "Mines to Vines" approach has impacted more than a million farmers and families. By removing landmines and remnants of war, Roots of Peace liberates land sequestered by riots. In Afghanistan, it has facilitated the export of fresh fruits, nuts and spices to markets around the world, helping to increase Afghan agricultural exports from $250 million in 2014 to over $1.4 billion in 2020. Roots' award-winning methodology of Peace is rooted in building a business model for peace: providing market-driven solutions tailored to rural communities in lands devastated by war and serving as a catalyst for the development of the entire industry worldwide. www.rootsofpeace.org
